AUSTRALIAN NATIVE FLORA COVER ART

Back to Nature

Early Childhood Cook's Diary For 2027, Australian flora takes centre stage – and in the ECEC kitchen, that feels exactly right. Native plants like lemon myrtle, finger lime, and bush tomato are finding their way back onto Australian tables, and children's early food experiences shape their relationship with the land for life.

The kitchen is one of the most powerful spaces in a service for connecting children to nature, culture, and Country. We chose this theme to celebrate the cooks and kitchen staff who nourish not just bodies, but curiosity – and to inspire a little more native wonder onto the menu.

How amazing do they look with our new floral internal pages!

THE EARLY CHILDHOOD COOK'S DIARY

HOW DOES OUR DIARY HELP WITH COMPLIANCE?

THEORETICAL LINKS

- Maslow's Hierarchy of needs states children's physiological and safety needs must be met before children can move up to love and belonging. Access to healthy food is vital to their movement up their hierarchy of needs.
- Dewey emphasised the importance of children's cultural worlds. Cultural celebration is supported by a cultural and special day calendar and cultural occasions record.
- Bronfenbrenner emphasised the importance of interactions between environmental factors on children's development. Interactions between parents and educators are encouraged with family correspondence records every day.

DEVELOPMENTAL MILESTONES

- By supporting the implementation of health and safety practices for Early Childhood Cooks, children's development is being supported.
- Healthy eating has been linked to children being more alert and interested in activities, thereby supporting their inclusion and active participation.
- Healthy foods provided at your service convey important messages to families and children and contribute significantly to their daily nutrition intake.
